There is loneliness in the fence. It's almost tangible. Like yesterday's movie queen the fence has a beauty, a grace, a charm that is fading. Indianapolis Westside is like that. It is no longer fashionable. But it's still solid, still a good place to live.

Washington High School is the hub, and the industries, the houses, and the business establishments radiate from that hub. Washington is an integral part of the Westside. The school has been around as long as most of the inhabitants.

It's not surprising to meet pupils at GWHS who have classes with teachers who taught older brothers and sisters - or mothers and fathers.

See the Westside first. . . .

Ah yes. Some scenes that would bring a tear to the eye of the noble Westsider. Can you place them? Which one best represents the idea expressed by the word "Halloween"? A teacher breathing down your neck?.....

. . . .and the rest will be added unto you

.....Friday night before a game? It's coming now and you're going to be late?
Sunday morning coming down?

Milt Goodwin, Merite Talbergs, Bonita Sturgis, and Mike Heath ponder a question in their first-round victory over Broad Ripple in Channel 13's Exercise in Knowledge.

good times shared

The many faces of GWHS. Studious. Energetic. An actor, a learner, a creator. At Washington there has always been a feeling, a tradition. It's discovered in the halls, in the gym, and in the classroom. A student begins to notice the atmosphere as soon as he enters the building for his first day in class. When he hears the beloved crackle of The Man he gets a tingle all up and down his spine.

The Washington Way. That's what The Man is talking about. To go to Washington and not be a part of it is like trying to swim without going near the water.

Sharing the work and the fun, the hard times and the good. Putting a play together, working on a homecoming float, joining a club, raising money for some worthwhile project. These are just a few of the things that make us successful at Washington. And make Washington successful.

Work enriches teen growth

Haughville, Stringtown, the Valley, Mars Hill. They are the neighborhoods. They and others like them are the Westside. The westside of Indianapolis. The neighborhoods have their little identity crises. Haughville is 95% black. The Valley is aggressively white. Other areas look like a collision between salt and pepper bottles.

The Westside is by no means a Harlem like in New York. But, like Harlem, the face of the areas changes as the older residents move on and a new tide of immigrants floods in. Greeks, Slavs, Negroes, Kentuckians.

They come

They go

But Washington stays. It's solid, stable. When you talk about the Westside you have to mention Washington. Lugar, Keller, Theofanis, Bavy, McGinnis, Henderson. A lot of people have passed through those halls lined with ugly pink or ugly green or ugly orange lockers. Johnson, Williams, Smith. Many more will pass through. And Washington will welcome them all.

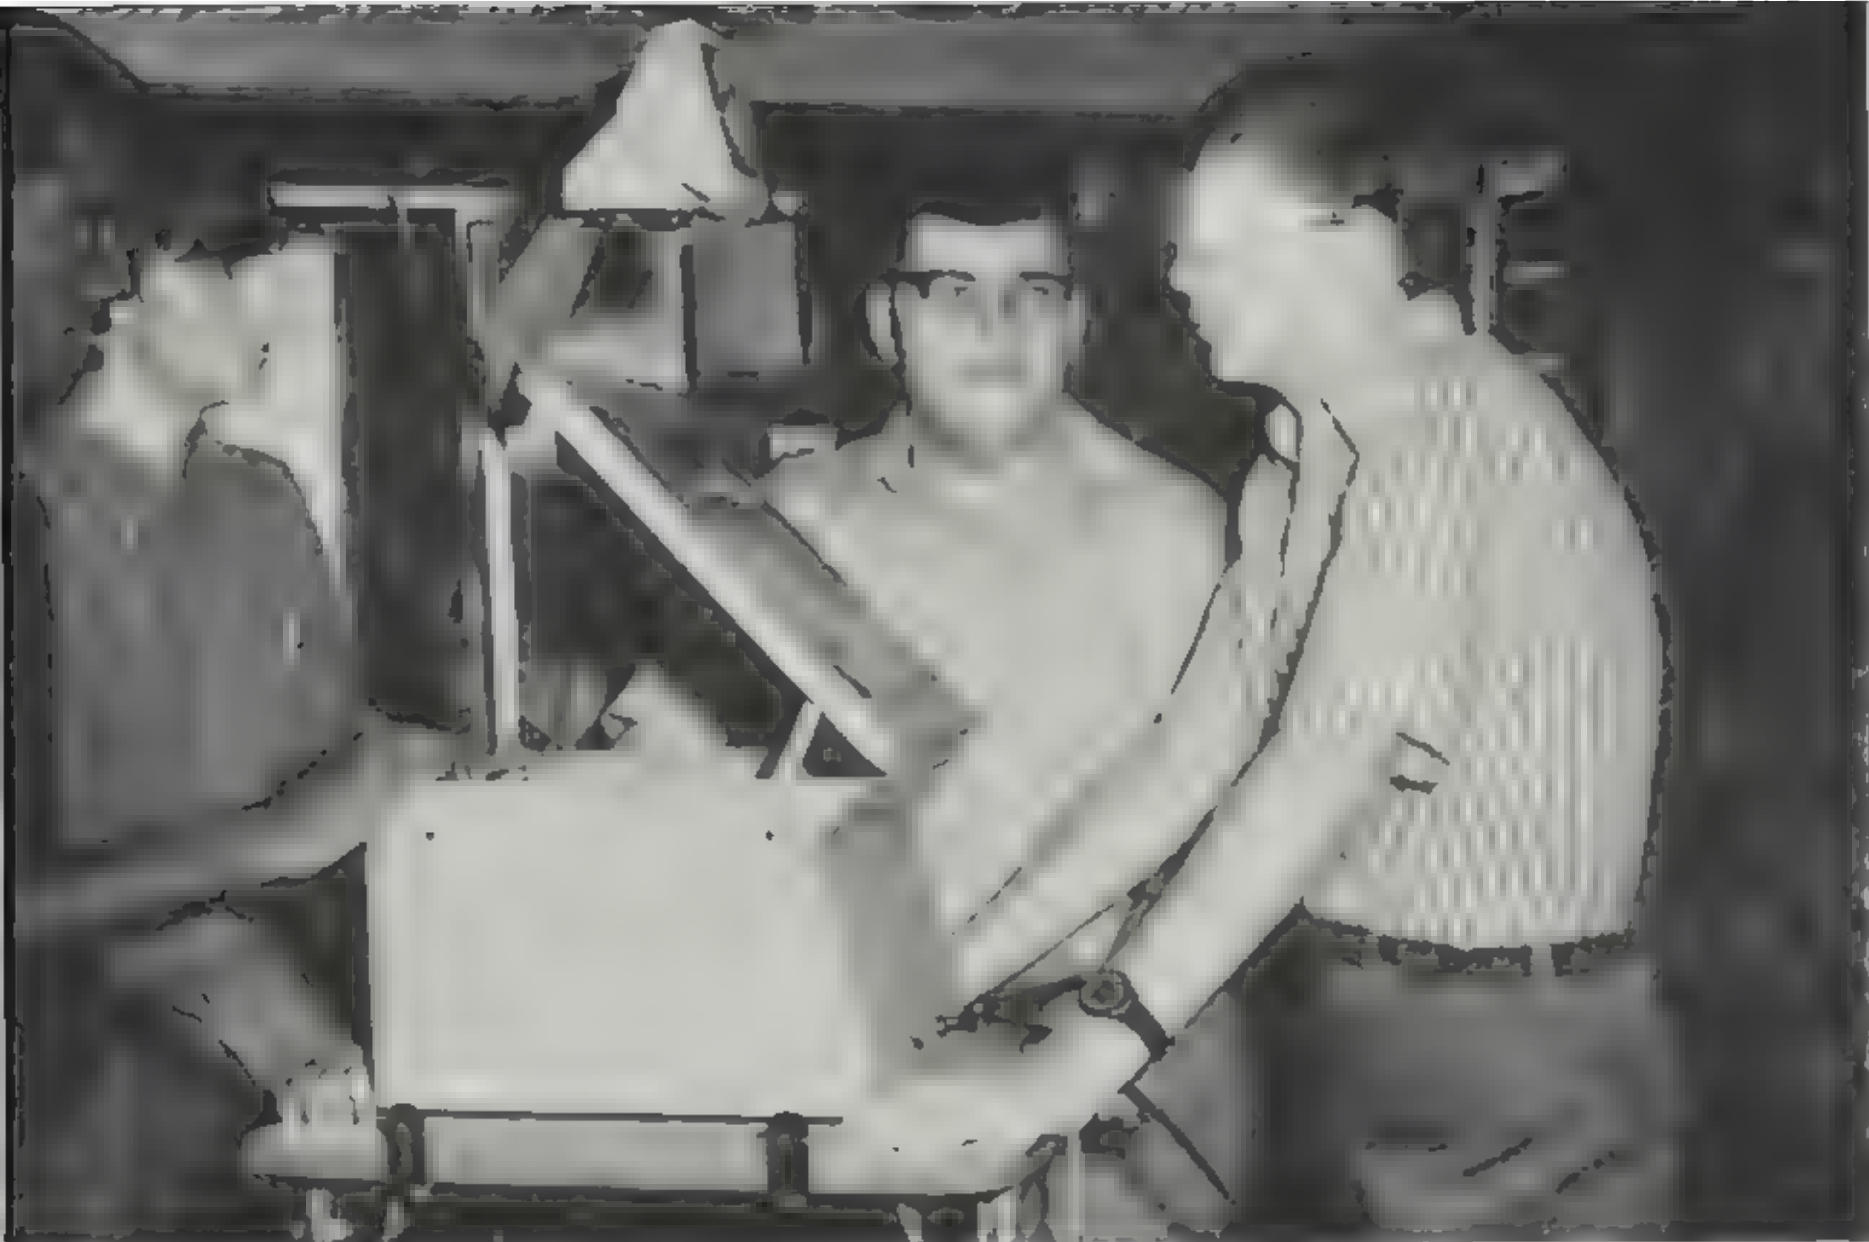

After the experience has been made less intimate by the passage of years, many will look back and smile inwardly. They were good years.

Rob Cosby, Rex Perry, and Kenny Cole listen carefully to both Gossett. With good reason. After all, how many Iron Rapids High School A.V. departments have studied art starts with "proten flash vision?"

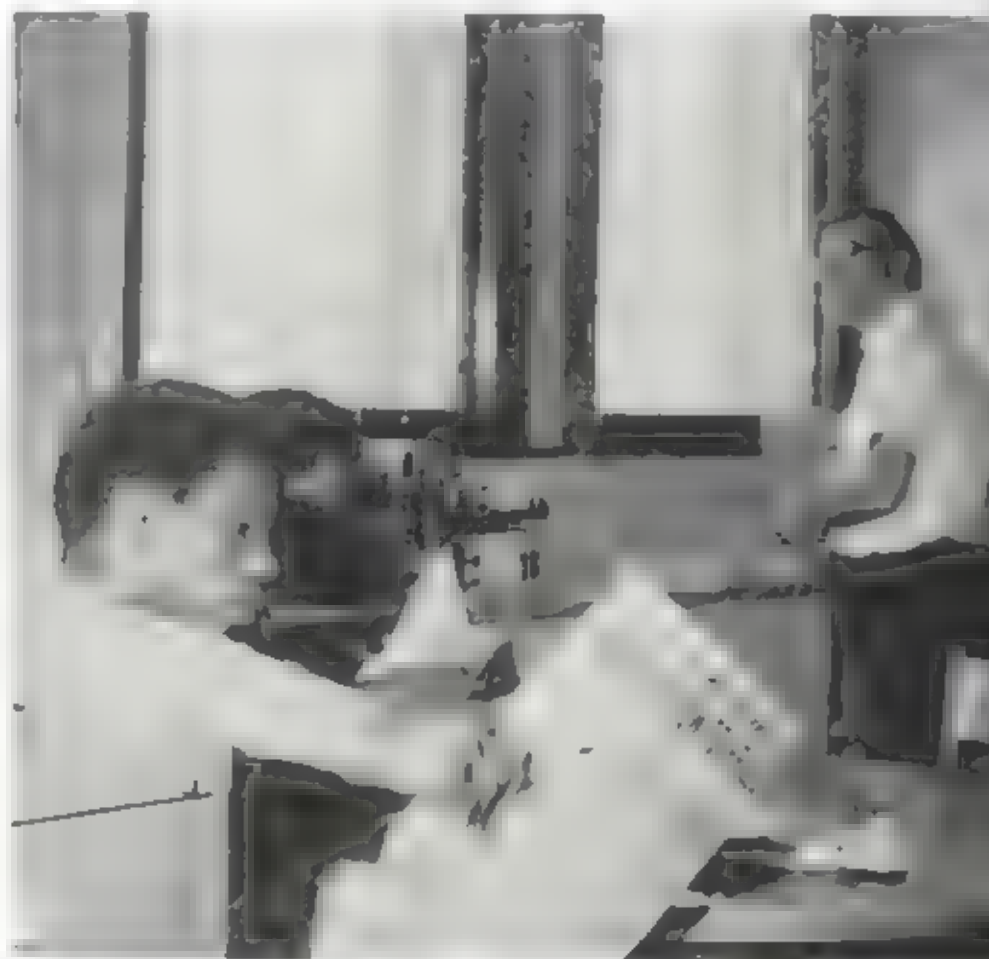

The poet speaks. Prof. John Woods came to Washington this past winter. Many Continental had never seen a poet before. One pupil commented that he was surprised Prof. Woods didn't come to town in a tent and you should have to pay a dime to see him. Another innocent asked, "Is he dead?" But the poet made a big event out of us. So I hear.

"Hurry up with those props!" "To be or not to be?" These are some of the sounds that can be heard whenever there is a play in progress. These are the hams of GWHS studying to be the idols of millions one day. One day these youthful thespians may be starring in a Broadway play that is a smash hit, or summer stock in the Catskills Mountains of New York. Who knows? Just think, when you're thirty years old, getting gray around the temples and fat around the middle, your son or daughter may come home from the theatre and say, "Helen Kira is the best actress I've ever seen" or "Bill McClure reminds me of that actor, uh, Sidney something-or-other. And then you can say, "Yeah, me and Bill was first like dat" or "Helen and I were in the same English class." Well, your kids will think you're as big a celebrity as your former classmates.

New Castle or Bust

Up at 5:00. That's A.M. Bleaahh! At school at 6:00 A.M. Arrived at school in a hurry only to find one of the girls hadn't showed up. We then went over to pick her up. So we were stopped by this mile long train. There were nineteen contestants, three sleepy teachers, and one bus driver. We proceeded to New Castle High School, 60 miles away. Arrived in New Castle only to find we should have been at Warren Central. So we turned our convoy around and landed back at Warren at 9:30. We missed the first round and twenty minutes of the second. Then the judges got on with the eliminations. We were left with only five in the championship round. Because we missed a round we couldn't win first place in anything but we did qualify four people for the regional. So we looked forward to next week when the whole thing would begin again.

Jay Sparks, Washington's number 1 runner throughout this season, is all alone as he finishes the last part of this two-mile course at Riverside against Shortridge. Sparks and the Continentals were winners here.

The Varsity cross-country team of 1970 was led by junior standout Jay Sparks and senior Tom Roberson. The harriers won only one meet, they defeated Shortridge "24"-36. Returning to the varsity squad next year will be Vince Barker, Dan Knapp, and stalwart Jay Sparks.

During the year Sparks consistent ran in the 10:30 brackett, followed by Knapp's 10:44, Senior Dave Robinson's 10:52, and Barker's 11:20.

The Continentals Harriers made a fine showing in the city meet as they placed 7th.

The highlight this year cross country team was the team's 8th place among 23 teams at the Southport Sectional.

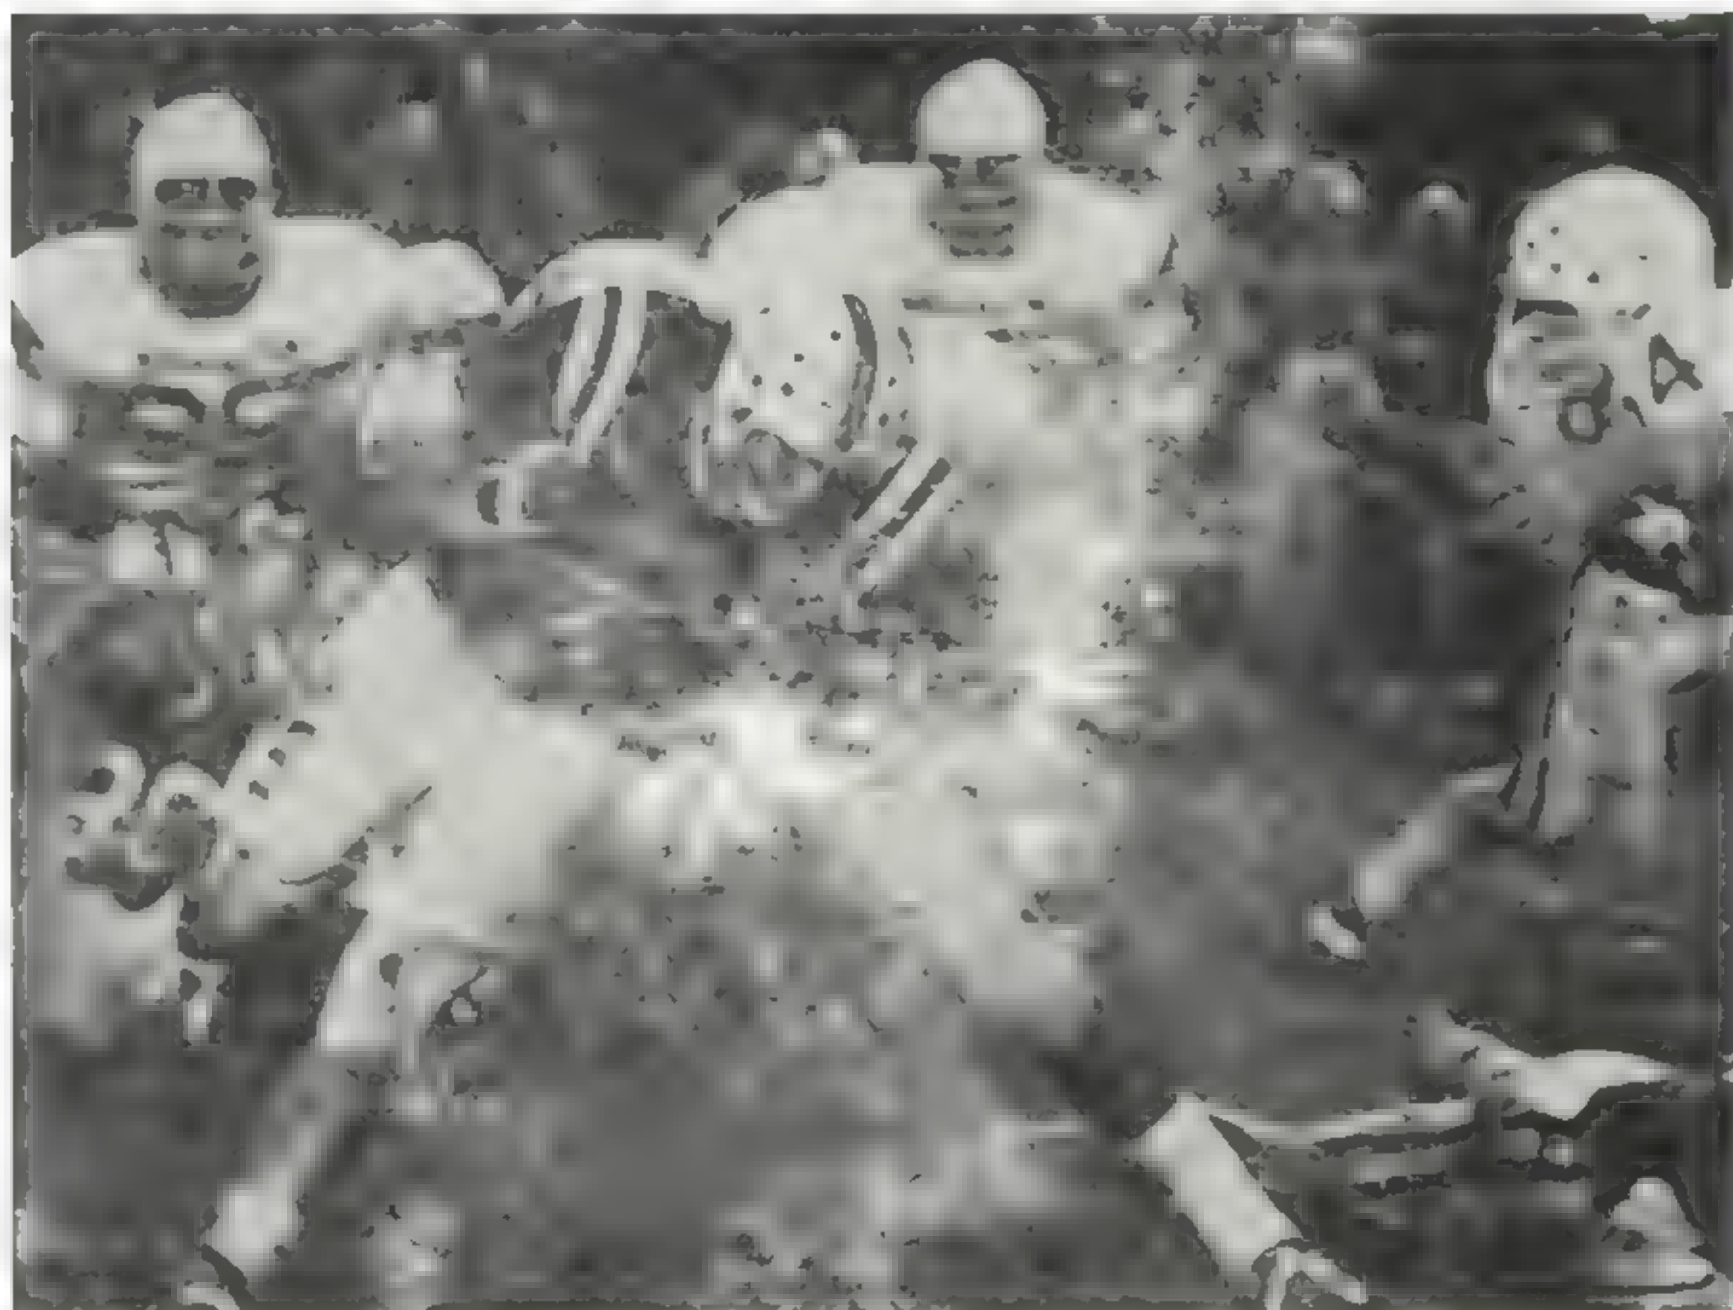

Varsity hopefuls up from the reserve team are Mark Kelly, Mike Heath and Clyde Dorney.

Coach Harold Orman's freshman harriers put some gleam in the Varsity Coach Arvin's eyes as they tied undefeated Manual in the last meet of the season. Reserve hopefuls next year are Patrick Stewart, Ron Hull, David Sullivan, Gary Johnson, Ken Collins and Tim Huntsman.

Washington's Continental gridmen were expected to be one of the top teams in the state. Though there were a few mishaps the Continentals proved to be a worthy opponent in every game. Coach Bob Springer's Continentals ended the season with a 6-3-1 mark.

The Westsiders got off on a flying start as they defeated Columbus 30-0. Following this victory the Continentals took a number 12 state ranking into the Manual game and were promptly up-set at Manual's field 32-16.

In the last game of the season they played arch-rival Cathedral and were defeated in a brutal defensive battle 6-2. The Continental offense was the third most productive in the city, while the defense had three shutouts.

At season's end halfback Eddie Boswell, fullback Steve Stanfield, and tackle Monte Woods were named to the All-City team. The Purple & White had the third leading scorer in Ed Boswell and Steve Stanfield was fifth in the city.

The most valuable player on the team for the second year in a row was Eddie Boswell. "Bos" also won the Blue Star Award and tackling trophy with 89 tackles.

Senior end Jim Riley seems to be doing a ballerina act as a Howe defensive back knocks the ball to the ground. Little did it matter as the Continentals took the sting out of the Hornets, 48-18.

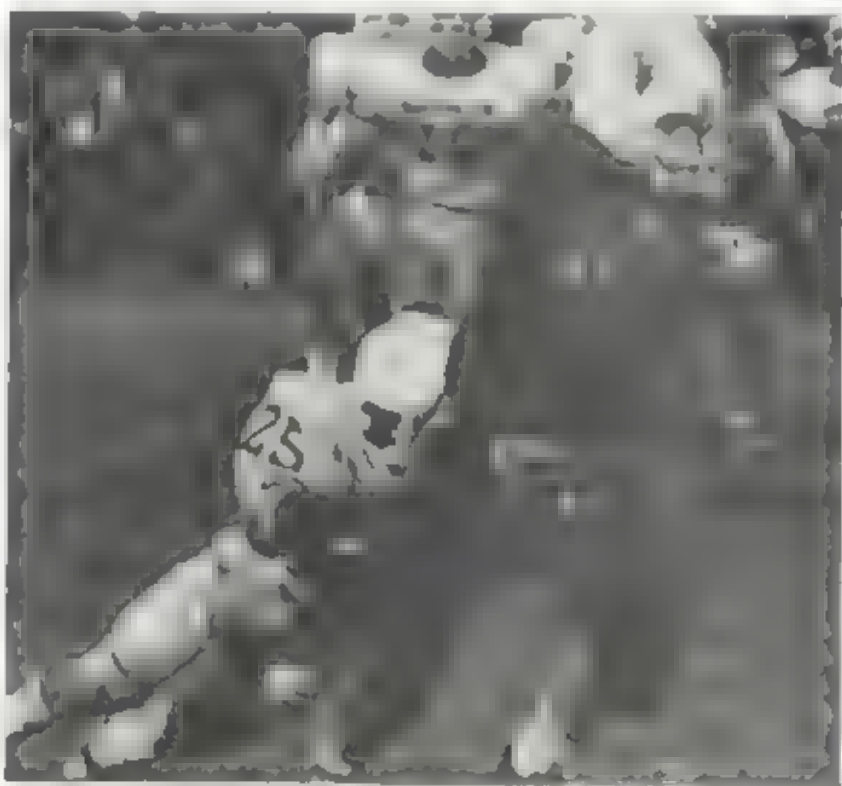

Though seemingly stopped, Ed Boswell lunged forward to get the needed first down. Boswell was the leading scorer on team

Frontline stalwart, Jim Harris waits for a rebound against the Hornets of Howe. Harris was the leading rebounder for the cagers.

Roundballers rush to 17-6 season on teamplay

The fighting Continentals thrilled their fans this year by ripping off a 17-6 season. The Big Purple caught the Shortridge Blue Devils twice, once during the season lidlifter and again in the Hinkle Sectional. Attucks, Cathedral, Northwest, Southport, metro powers all, fell to Basil Sfreddo's onrushing juggernaut. Tech, in the Hinkle final, waylaid Washington on their way to a Semi-State tournament berth.

After zapping Shortridge at Manual, Washington journeyed to Northwest where they found a chilly reception. A brilliant second half rally warmed things up and the Pioneers suffered their only reverse in their first ten games. The Continentals took advantage of their hosts, Evansville Reitz and Lawrence Central, in rushing a 4-0 record. Then Warren got a one point victory when Steve Stanfield missed a bunny with seconds to play.

Abner Nibbs, Tom Skaggs and Stanfield were the leading scorers. Big Stan and James Harris topped the board beaters while Al Glaze and Stanfield were the playmakers.

Continental's show strong improvement

As the 1971 seasons draws to a close, Continental trackers are anticipating a sectional title at Franklin. This year's team is power packed with outstanding athletes who are expected to advance to the State meet. Stephen Officer in the long jump and Wayne Grace in the 100 yard dash are both leading contenders for state titles. Ruben Timmons, Grace, Ronald Hayes and Officer, comprise an 880 yd-relay team capable of blowing anyone off the track on any given day. In the long distance run of two miles, Jay Sparks has turned in a sparkling time of 9:50. Senior hurdler George Russell has bounced back from a football injury and can supply tough competition. In other field events, Joe Broadhacker has heaved the shot over 50 feet and pole vaulter John Sims cleared the 13'2" mark with ease.

Senior long jump Steve Officer sail through the air with a jump of twenty-one feet. Officer has an excellent chance to advance in the state competition in this event.

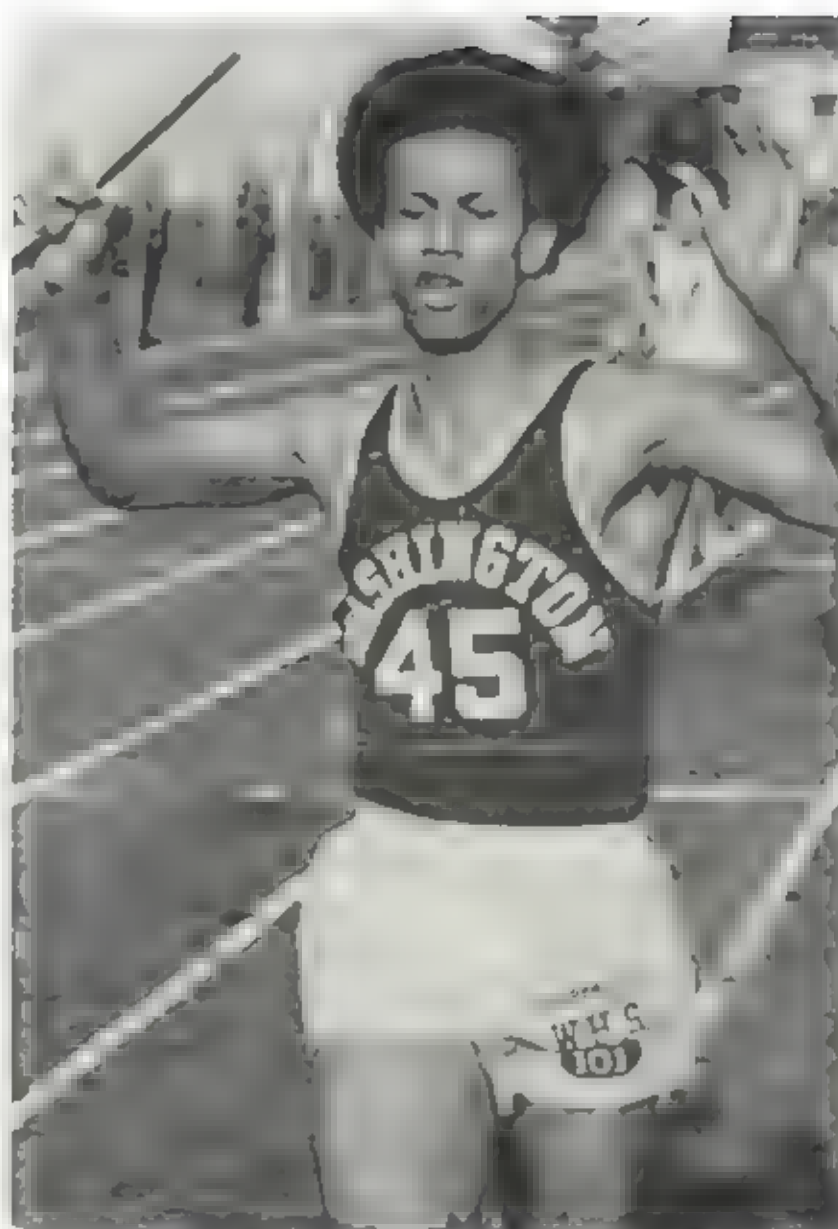

Sophomore Sylvester Troutman has determination all over his face and it pays off as he jumped nineteen feet in the Columbus Relays.

Senior John Sims shows the form that made him one of the area's best pole vaulters as he clears thirteen feet.

Shot putter Joe Brodhacker shows good form as he lets one fly

Sprinter Wayne Grace proves once again that he is a winner as he finishes far out in front of the field in the 880 yard relay.

Hurdler George Russell leads by a foot in a tight race at the Columbus Relays.

Productivity and imagination for 'J' students

Sophomores Becky Tames and Patsy Blankenship look over material for the up-coming edition of the school paper.

Journalism is a very informal class in which the skills of writing and publishing are learned by actually taking part in such procedures. A journalism student may join either the SURVEYOR staff or the POST staff and possibly both.

The SURVEYOR is one of the top rated high school newspapers in the country and they have a new advisor this year. Miss Kim Kercheval. Miss Kercheval has worked hard with the staff this year in upholding their fine tradition.

The POST is the only self printed high school yearbook in the state. Washington high school has long been proud of this fact.

The requirements for a student entering Journalism are that he must have at least a B average in English, be a sophomore and have good recommendations from his counselor.

Quill and Scroll is an International Honor Society for young high school journalists. It's membership is comprised of students who have shown outstanding achievement in the Journalism Field.

Homecoming a Wow!

Excited Continentals really turned out at the Homecoming. The student body began preparations weeks in advance. A few of activities included the decorations of the floats. This was done by different classes. Fireworks were also set off homecoming night. On the big day, a pep session was held in the gym to encourage among the student body the Spirit of '66. The pep session was a great success and the spirit promoted was carried over to the game where Washington met Ben Davis.

The marching band, majorettes and pom pom girls opened the ceremonies at half time with selected numbers. Even though the rain came, the planned events were carried out. A procession of colorful floats preceded the Homecoming coronation. The Queen of the 1970 Homecoming was Renee Featherston and her King was Ed Boswell, both seniors. Included in Homecoming events were the princesses from each of the underclasses. The Continentals were finally defeated by the Giants but the Homecoming was still enjoyable

Steve Glaze practices a little simple arithmetic in his role as a bookstore assistant.

"That will be a dime for the folder and nineteen cents for the pen." The sounds of a bookstore assistant hard at work supplying the students with those necessary items for the class room. Paper, pencils and folders. These students become adept at appraising used books at the minimum of profit to the seller. As a matter of fact, these people will sometimes buy a book in perfect condition that is only one semester old for as little as a dollar and a half, swearing it's not worth that much, and the next period sell the same book to some unsuspecting soul for $4.50! Hissss!

Seniors fly high as year ends

Senior Class Officers - Nikki Sanders, Alan Glaze, Joy Tweed, President John Bopp, Nick [unclear]

In the summer of 1970 John Bopp went to the American Legion sponsored Hooper Girls State. The purpose of the affair is to inculcate traditional American values. Heleyra and Nikki Sanders represented Washington and found out what Americanism is about at Hooper Girls State.

Marite Talberg and friend check with Miss Kim Kercheval about the next issue of the Surveyor.

Tony Barchett does some research on the purely Continental musical extravaganza, No! No! Tonette.

Many times, people could get the impression that the only people that go to high school are the seniors and the freshmen. There is never too much said about the people in the middle, particularly the juniors. Those poor students caught between underclass freshies and sophs and tyrannical seniors. These people are a very important part of Washington. They have their own class officers and are on the verge of taking command of the student body when the present senior class abdicates.

This year the hard-working juniors put on a fashion show with fashions from leading clothing and apparel shops around the city. The models were students. Also, the junior class is sponsoring a prom and the Class of 1971 is to be the honored guests.

So, as everyone can see, the juniors are hard at work contributing to the life at George Washington High School.

Sophs psyche for first really big year

Many class pictures were taken this year to show you what goes on in the classrooms. As you can see not everyone is interested in getting their picture taken. Are they paying attention to the teacher or just being sly?
